

In the frame of Theo 313/424, the Cody Chair invites faculty and graduate students to an Advanced Graduate Seminar

Rembrandt Harmensz van Rijn,
"St. Paul at his Desk," 1633

“HOW PAULINE IS THE GOSPEL OF MARK?”

Clare Rothschild

Gortzius Geldorp,
"Mark the Evangelist", 1605

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 2014
MUNDELEIN 203
4:15 – 6:45 P.M.

For more information, contact
Prof. Edmondo Lupieri at:
elupier@luc.edu/773-508-2363

Refreshments will be provided.

Clare K. Rothschild is Associate Professor in the Department of Theological Studies at Lewis University specializing in the area of Biblical Studies. Her research agenda includes interpreting the New Testament in its Greco-Roman and Hellenistic Jewish contexts, studying the New Testament in relation to both early Christian and late antique Christian literature, and utilizing a variety of methodological approaches. She currently serves as editor of Early Christianity, a new journal of the publisher Mohr Siebeck. She also serves on the executive committee of the Studiorum Novi Testamenti Societas, acts as co-chair of the Society of Biblical Literature's Corpus Hellenisticum Novi Testamenti Section, and is an active member of the Catholic Biblical Association, North American Patristics Society, Midwest SBL, and Chicago Society of Biblical Research.