Biographical Sketch

Robert Clinton Hartnett, S.J., was born December 7, 1904, in Escanaba, Michigan, to John Matthew Hartnett and Mary Winifred (Killian) Hartnett. He was baptized into the Roman Catholic Church on December 19, 1901, and confirmed into the same in 1915. The family moved to Chicago in the summer of 1906, settling in Rogers Park in 1909. Hartnett attended the Holy Child Convent for kindergarten and first grade, subsequently graduating from St. Ignatus Parish School in June 1919. He attended Loyola Academy in Chicago from 1919 to 1923, and Loyola University Chicago from 1924 to 1927, earning his B.A. with concentration in Philosophy and English. On September 1st, 1927, he entered the Society of Jesus at St. Stanislaus Novitiate in Florissant, Missouri. Hartnett's M.A. in Latin, Greek, and English at St. Louis University was completed in 1931 concurrently with his Ph.L. in Philosophy, which he finished in 1932. He entered Heythrop College in Oxfordshire, England in 1935, where he studied Philosophy and earned his Licentiate in Sacred Theology in 1939. On September 6, 1938, he was ordained by Cardinal Griffin, Primate of England at Heythrop. Hartnett commenced his Ph.D. work in Political Science and Sociology at Fordham University in New York in 1941, earning his second doctorate in 1946.

Hartnett was President of America Press and Editor in Chief of America and The Catholic Mind from 1948 to 1955. While at America Press, he authored a number of pamphlets and articles, including Equal Rights for Children (Federal Aid to Education, Constitutional Issues) (1947), The Marshall Plan, in collaboration with Tibor Payzs (1948), Federal Aid to Education (1948), and The State of Religious Education (1950). In addition to publications in America and The Catholic Mind, Hartnett was also published by The New Catholic Encyclopedia, The Journal of Higher Education, Mission Digest, The Catholic Library World, American Ecclesiastical Review, American Catholic Sociological Review and Loyola Law Times.

Throughout his professional career, Hartnett taught at several Jesuit institutions, including the University of Detroit (1932-1935, 1946-1948, 1955-1956), Xavier University (1940-1941), Fordham University (1945-1946 and 1948-1949), and Loyola University Chicago (1956-1975). Employed as an English instructor at the University of Detroit from 1932-1935 at the onset of his teaching career, Hartnett served as Chairman of the Political Science department and Associate Professor (1948) from 1946-1948. Returning once more in 1955, Hartnett was appointed Professor in the Department of Political Science for the duration of the academic year. Hartnett was Instructor of Religion and Sociology and Acting Head in the Department of Religion at Xavier University in Cincinnati from 1940-1941. He was a Lecturer in Political Philosophy at the Graduate School at Fordham University from 1945-1949 and Assistant Professor from 1945-1948. During his tenure at Loyola, he was Dean of the College of the Arts and Sciences from 1956-1958, and a professor in the department of Political Science from 1958 until 1975, the year of his retirement.

In addition to teaching, Hartnett was an avid lecturer on the topics of political science, religion and education, speaking at institutions such as Harvard University Summer School (1955), Colgate University (1952), Columbia University (1950 and 1953), Yale University (1950), and Marquette University (1956).
