Biographical Sketch

Rosemarie Rizzo Parse was born in Pennsylvania in 1938. She went on to graduate from St. Francis Academy in 1956, before enrolling at Duquesne University. She went on to receive her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Duquesne in 1960 before moving on to the University of Pittsburgh and completing her master's in Nursing in 1961 and her doctorate in Nursing and Higher Education in 1969. She began her teaching career at the University of Pittsburgh while finishing her Ph.D. before accepting a position at Duquesne in 1966. She served as Dean of the School of Nursing at Duquesne from 1977-1979 and left the university in 1983 to serve as a professor and the coordinator of the Center for Nursing Research at Hunter College of the City University of New York. She remained at Hunter College until she accepted a position as the Niehoff Chair at Loyola University Chicago Niehoff School of Nursing in 1993. In 2006, she left Loyola and has served as a consultant and visiting scholar at New York University College of Nursing.

Dr. Parse made considerable contributions to the field of nursing, most significantly her theory of Man-Living Health which she renamed the Human Becoming Theory in 1990. Her theory is internationally known through her nine books and over one hundred articles as well as the many other works based upon her theory published by other scholars. She has presented her theory all over the world and had her books translated into several different languages. She also founded Nursing Science Quarterly, a journal dedicated to the study of nursing theory and research. She is also the founder of the Institute of Human Becoming and the president of Discovery International, Inc., a nursing consultation firm.

Scope and Content
