ACADEMIC RESOURCES

Fall 2023

Academic Department Tutoring

- The American Chemical Society undergraduate student organization offers tutoring for General, Organic, Quantitative Analysis, Biochemistry, and Physical Chemistry classes.
- The Computer Science Department Tutoring offers tutoring for students in COMP 125, 150, 163, 170, and 271 among others.
- In partnership with the Language Learning Resource Center (LLRC), the Tutoring Center sponsors Language Tutoring for most languages offered.
- The Loyola Mathematics and Statistics Club offers free tutoring to students who are in 100 and 200 level Mathematics and Statistics courses.
- The Physics Club undergraduate student organization offers tutoring for various Physics classes.

The Writing Center

W: luc.edu/writing

The Writing Center seeks to help all clients become better writers. They believe that all writers, of all levels of ability, can benefit from collaborative tutoring with experienced writers. They welcome all writers - undergraduate students, graduate students, faculty, staff members, and alumni - and offer comprehensive writing assistance, including face-to-face appointments, online appointments, and written feedback.

Libraries

W: libraries.luc.edu

Libraries are Loyola's gateway to the world of information and scholarship. Students can borrow books, ask for research assistance, use computer labs, and study individually or in group study rooms. Loyola also has libraries on the Water Tower Campus, the Maywood Campus, and the Rome Center.
